

Cleveland Neighborhood Progress

investing for vibrancy

5 year Strategic Plan | Full Report
2017 - 2021

Cleveland Neighborhood Progress, a local community development funding intermediary, moves into 2017 with a renewed vision for vibrant neighborhoods. Through organizational introspection and soliciting the insight of our dynamic partners, we created a new strategic plan for the next five years that reflects our best thinking about the potential of Cleveland's community development system to create stronger and more connected neighborhoods. This plan preserves the essential elements of our philosophical commitment to comprehensive community development—an approach that balances the importance of people and place and people in place—and refines our strategies in response to the changing nature of our work.

Through this strategic planning process, three emergent priorities have been intentionally infused into the DNA of our organization: Policy, Advocacy, and Research; Racial Equity and Inclusion; and Thought Leadership. We believe that each of these priorities are interconnected and mutually reinforcing, and are part of a natural evolution for our organization and for Cleveland's community development industry. The strategic planning process for Cleveland Neighborhood Progress has resulted in a revised mission and vision.

Mission: to foster inclusive communities of choice and opportunity throughout Cleveland.

Vision: Cleveland's neighborhoods are attractive, vibrant, and inclusive communities where together, people from diverse incomes, races, and generations thrive, prosper, and choose to live, learn, work, invest, and play.

In fulfilling our mission, we are committed to:

RESULTS—Achieve transformative outcomes throughout Cleveland's neighborhoods

INTEGRITY—Maintain honest, transparent, and ethical conduct

EQUITY—Champion equal access to opportunity for people of all races and income levels

ACCOUNTABILITY—Accept responsibility for actions, results, and transformation

EXCELLENCE—Expect outstanding quality in everything we do

COLLABORATION—Accomplish more by working together

INNOVATION—Take informed risks to find new solutions

Cleveland Neighborhood Progress utilizes a comprehensive approach to community development. The following principles reflect our values and define our culture:

1) The central role of cities, neighborhoods, and people in place:

We believe Cleveland’s contributions to our economy and quality of life are the building blocks of our regional stability. We also believe that neighborhoods of choice and opportunity are essential to a thriving city, and that people are the life-blood of thriving neighborhoods. Involvement in significant county and regional discussions, initiatives, and investments will be pursued with an eye on how Clevelanders, and Cleveland neighborhoods, can contribute and benefit. We embrace a holistic vision for neighborhood revitalization that infuses “people-based strategies” within traditional “bricks-and-mortar” community development practice. This comprehensive approach is essential to fostering the development of vibrant neighborhoods that meet the needs of its residents.

2) Race matters:

We believe racial inequality and the persistence of structural barriers that prevent people of color from accessing opportunities can no longer be tolerated and must be addressed. We must work with a diverse range of partners to rectify the disparate impacts of social, economic, political, and climate-related stressors on communities of color. In order to advance our mission of fostering neighborhoods of choice and opportunity for all Cleveland residents, we must approach community development using a racial equity and inclusion lens, and build coalitions to reduce racial disparity.

3) Equity for all people:

We are committed to advancing equity as a fundamental design principle for our work. In order to truly accomplish our vision for Cleveland’s neighborhoods, we must ensure that all residents—especially the most marginalized members of the community—feel connected to the fabric of their neighborhoods, have equal access to opportunities, and are engaged in decision-making processes that affect their lives. We will promote community development policies and practices that intentionally address concentrated poverty and the legacies of historic and current inequality.

4) High-capacity Community Development Corporations:

We believe effective and efficient community development corporations play a unique and critical role in transforming every neighborhood and fulfilling the values and principles that Neighborhood Progress is committed to pursuing in partnership.

5) Climate Resiliency and Sustainability:

We believe that increasing access to urban green spaces will benefit everyone, and that it is essential for communities to have the resources and tools needed to address climate change and its associated environmental stresses. By embracing sustainable approaches and practices, investing in vacant land reclamation, advancing mitigation programs, and fostering social cohesion, we believe we will create healthier, more adaptable neighborhoods for Cleveland’s residents.

6) Broad-based collaboration, resident empowerment and partnerships:

We believe that together with our governmental, institutional, and neighborhood partners we can achieve far more than any one nonprofit, philanthropic, public, or private enterprise can accomplish on its own. We also believe that the expertise, influence, and capacity of local anchor institutions—such as hospitals and universities—must be leveraged to significantly (and positively) impact proximate communities. Furthermore, we acknowledge that local participation and resident empowerment are indispensable to our work. In an era of scarcity, maximizing existing resources, network efficiency, and scale all matter. Neighborhood Progress works to break down silos, share best practices, and foster collective impact through long-term relationships with community groups and anchor institutions, government, private enterprise, faith-based organizations, and philanthropy to capitalize on Cleveland neighborhoods’ substantial assets. Ultimately, lasting change occurs only when dynamic organizations work collaboratively with a diversity of residents and leaders for positive neighborhood outcomes.

7) Transparent and informed decision-making:

We believe analyzing and sharing data, information, and insights about our most pressing community needs—and what does, and does not work to address them—provides a common body of knowledge and experience upon which organizations and their leaders must draw. As a thought-leader and convener, Neighborhood Progress encourages outcomes-driven practices, innovation, and risk-taking, using data to focus efforts on what will have the greatest impact.

8) Access to quality affordable housing, education, and retail, artistic, & cultural amenities:

We believe that the built environment is the foundation of a neighborhood. The quality of schools, housing, and retail greatly impacts the decision to move into a neighborhood. The affordability of amenities and its proximity to multi-modal transit connections ensures that—regardless of income—residents are able to stay in their community of choice. Educational attainment is an essential element of community building and inextricably bound to neighborhood success, job readiness, and wealth building. We also believe that creative spaces and cultural institutions are essential to preserving the unique character of our neighborhoods, and greatly contribute to the spiritual, emotional, and intellectual wellbeing of its residents. Increasing access to high-quality schools for all students, safe and affordable housing for all families, and a diverse mix of attractive amenities for all residents, fosters a sense of ownership and belonging that is essential to creating stronger, more vibrant, and more connected communities. When thoughtfully developed, inclusive neighborhoods provide a launching pad for families and individuals to advance socially and economically.

9) Catalytic Public & Private Investments:

We believe that Cleveland neighborhoods have suffered from decades of disinvestment, which has resulted in a lack of quality assets, amenities, and opportunities for residents. We are committed to reversing these trends and working to attract increased resources for community development. We provide, promote, and broker access to responsive and responsible investment capital, as well as, development services to build and strengthen neighborhood markets. We will work with private and public sector leaders to ensure that urban investment is a top priority.

10) Advocacy for equitable policies:

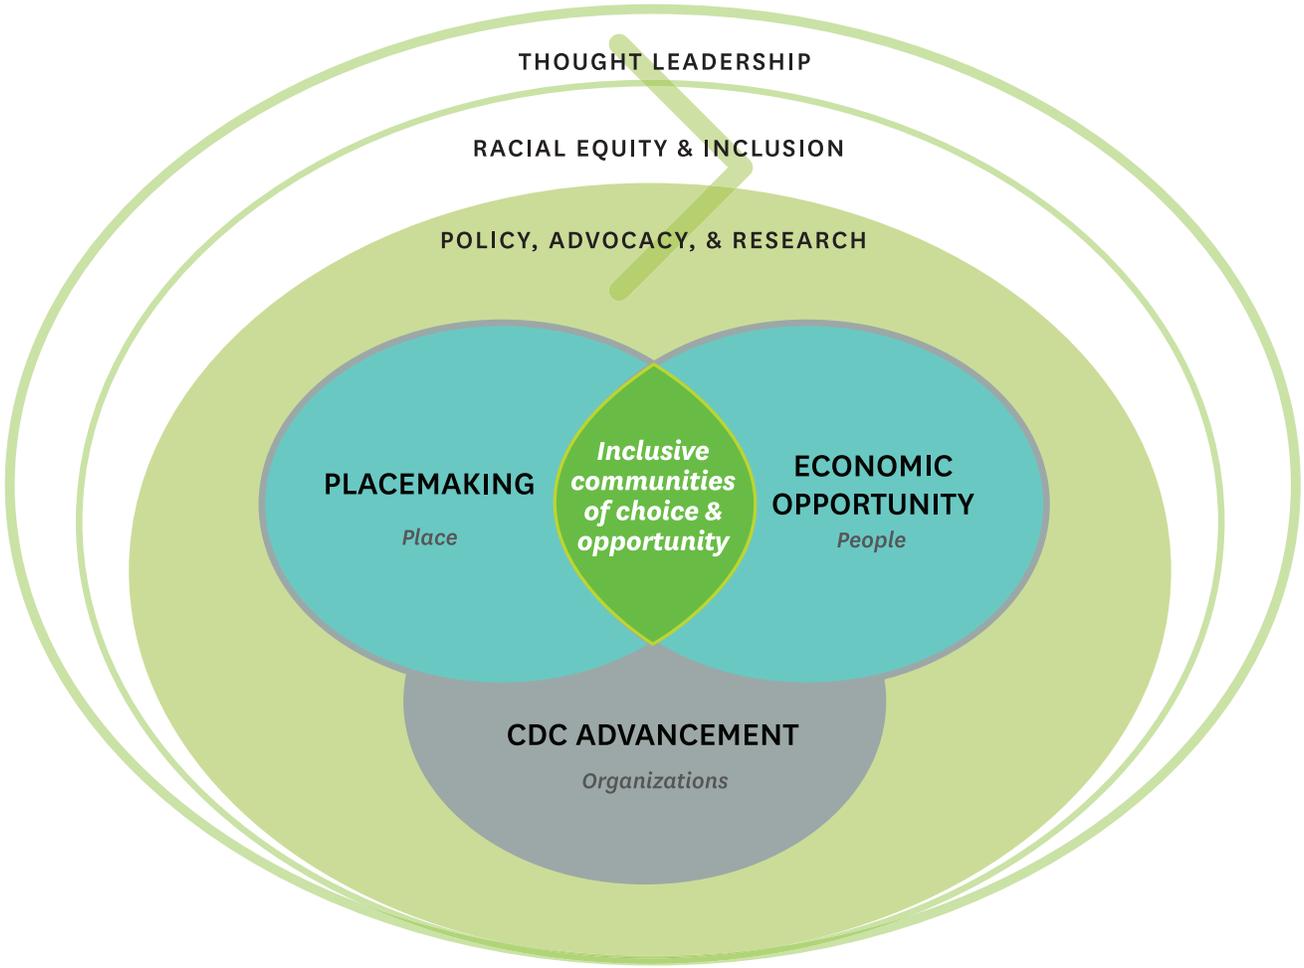

We believe that there is a vital need for a unified voice to advocate for the most pressing policy priorities of Cleveland's community development industry. Considering the complexity and urgency of the need for stronger, more vibrant neighborhoods, we will advance a robust and multidimensional policy and advocacy agenda to catalyze local, state and federal investments in the urban core, and to spur equitable, innovative solutions. We will work in partnership with legislators to support and prioritize issues such as: public infrastructure and transit-oriented development projects, neighborhood economic development, innovative vacant land reuse strategies, mobility, economic opportunity, and protecting equity for homeowners through housing preservation and rehabilitation support.

Decision Making Criteria:

In addition to the organization's mission, vision, values and guiding principles, clear decision-making criteria was established by our organization in determining the final scope of this plan.

This 2017 – 2021 Strategic Plan:

- Must align with our mission & values and guiding principles, and help achieve our strategic goals

CDC ADVANCEMENT

At its core, the purpose of Cleveland Neighborhood Progress’ CDC Advancement work is to support and elevate Cleveland’s community development system. It is our belief that through a strong system of community development corporations, Cleveland’s neighborhoods are best equipped to make change and become communities of choice and opportunity. With one of the oldest and most mature community development systems in the United States, we see Cleveland as a model of highly effective and results-driven community development and seek to highlight this work on a national scale.

To accomplish this goal, CDC Advancement will support CDCs through industry alignment, continued professionalization of CDC leaders and staff, and by connecting our partners to new, cutting-edge tools and resources to deepen their work in neighborhoods. Over the next five years, we will continue to ally with community development funders and share our model for inclusive comprehensive community development and transparent grant-making. We are committed to evidence-based practices and data-informed decision-making, and we will continue to research and disseminate best practices through our Performance Standards and share neighborhood data and indicators through our Progress Index. We will host and sponsor trainings and workshops in Cleveland to help broaden and deepen our industry’s knowledge, while also sharing local community development innovation with the rest of the country through research, opinion papers, and presentations at national conferences. Finally, as our field changes and evolves, we will explore options for shared services, alliances, and mergers, and advocate for new funding sources and investments in our community development system.

ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY

Economic Opportunity is the critical link between Placemaking and CDC Services. We know that communities are not just the sum of the buildings within a defined geographic location; communities are places where people live, learn, work, and play. The Economic Opportunity portfolio keeps the organization focused on improving the lives of residents as an essential strategy to holistically strengthen communities. As this portfolio has continued to be refined, we have begun to understand its role as a set of design principles, rather than programmatic activities. The efficacy of our comprehensive approach to community development depends on the integration of Economic Opportunity within the core functioning and strategic thinking of the organization.

As our most explicitly people-centric goal, the strategies included in the Economic Opportunity implementation section are designed to intentionally address structural racism and advance diversity, racial equity, and inclusion through our work. These themes greatly influence our efforts to increase opportunities for all Cleveland residents. We believe that Cleveland’s neighborhoods are strongest when more residents contribute to the local economy. When residents are empowered to open businesses, spend money in the neighborhood, and invest in their futures, the community benefits. When race and socioeconomic status do not determine a person’s opportunity to contribute to their community’s future, neighborhoods are more vibrant. We work to accomplish our vision for Cleveland’s neighborhoods by advancing strategies intended to:

- Leverage the intersections between community and economic development
- Build community wealth and support residents in attaining financial security

ORGANIZATIONAL CAPACITY

Cleveland Neighborhood Progress is a local community development funding intermediary with nearly thirty years of experience investing in community revitalization work in the city of Cleveland. It serves a unique function as the only local intermediary in the region and is proud to be nationally highlighted as a leader for engaging in best practices in various facets of nonprofit programming. The Board and staff will strive to enhance the reputation of the organization by improving internal capacity and leading industry partners on new and existing initiatives to improve the quality of Cleveland's neighborhoods and the quality of life for Cleveland's residents.

Since its inception in 1988, our organization has leveraged and fortified its capacity to serve as a Convener, Investor and Thought Leader. The organization plays a vital role in bringing together dynamic partners to build coalitions, facilitate collaboration, and create new solutions to persistent challenges. Though the organization has proven successful in this role, there exist opportunities to improve. We aspire to be an adaptive, learning organization that is even better prepared to strengthen the citywide community development system.

Cleveland Neighborhood Progress will continue to invest in the operating capacity of community development corporations (CDCs) and in the development of data-driven measurement tools to optimize their work. Through its wholly-owned subsidiaries New Village and Village Capital, we also invest in catalytic real estate projects intended to reignite residential and commercial development, and attract additional investment into the city of Cleveland.

Over the next five years, we will work to elevate our important role as an industry Thought Leader, which we believe will be immeasurably valuable to our capacity to serve as Convener and Investor. We will continue to promote best practices in the field of community development and advocate for the priorities of the industry. We understand that our unique positioning provides us with an opportunity to raise awareness for the many innovative strategies created by community development practitioners throughout Cleveland. However, considering the complexities and urgency of our work, there is a vital need for a unified voice to advocate for the most pressing policy priorities of the local community development industry. Going forward, evolution of the agenda will include: clear and concise goals for addressing the challenges within community development; engaging a stronger base of supporters; activating our robust network of organizers to respond to calls to action; and regular research produced by Cleveland Neighborhood Progress and shared locally and nationally.

Finally, as an integral thought leader and investor in the community development industry, it is incumbent upon Cleveland Neighborhood Progress to lead the way in addressing structural racism—the root cause of racial inequality—through comprehensive community development. We must develop strategies that take into account all relevant factors—historical, social, economic, etc.—that influence the interaction between people and places. We must think intentionally about how we can create and sustain racial equity—the systematic fair treatment of people of all races, which results in equitable opportunities and outcomes for everyone—through our work. We must also consider the ways that our industry can facilitate meaningful inclusion for residents of color.
